Benefits of an education at Bhaktivedanta College

"Courses such as Vaishnava Vedanta, ISKCON History, and Sanskrit for Scriptural Study have greatly broadened my perspective on Krishna consciousness and deepened my appreciation for our rich tradition. Teacher Training, Congregational Development, Communications, and Leadership and Management solidified essential skills for me and taught me to effectively and efficiently apply them in devotional service. Western Philosophy, World Religions, and Ethics introduced me to the fascinating world of philosophical and spiritual dialectic and gave me some orientation in the great traditions."

"The College is an open secret. And although its glories are well known, it often unfolds deeper and deeper meanings. This makes us students become immersed in the precious heritage of our spiritual tradition and become well-equipped participants in its continuation. Another wonderful feature of the College is the association, both with our teachers, who are learned, experienced, and munificent Vaishnavas, and with our fellow students, who are dedicated to their studies and friendly and supportive toward one another. I feel blessed and honored to be a part of this project, which has an essential role in Srila Prabhupada's society."

"I can think of several benefits: to practice Krishna consciousness in a devotional atmosphere and to learn to appreciate and encourage others in spiritual life; to increase students' acquaintance with various fields of knowledge and sharpen their analytical and communication skills for considerate and efective preaching; to receive guidance; and to learn to take responsibility for their lives, their vocation, and their contributions to their communities."
